

Silliman College

Class of 2018

CLASS OF 2018, WELCOME TO SILLIMAN!

Undergraduate life at Yale College is organized around twelve residential colleges where students live, eat, attend seminars and workshops, and participate in intellectual, artistic, and social activities. Each college is a cohesive community with its own character and traditions. A Master and Dean live in each college with their families, and there are apartments where faculty members live as Resident Fellows.

Silliman is the largest college at Yale, occupying most of a city block. Whereas other colleges house their freshmen on Old Campus, freshmen in Silliman College and Timothy Dwight College enjoy the privilege of living in their own colleges. Silliman's courtyard alternates as an informal athletic field, a site for college festivities, and a place for quiet repose. Over one hundred members of the faculty, staff, and administration are Fellows of Silliman, and they are invited to eat in the college dining hall and participate in college activities. The aim is to promote interchange between faculty and students.

Silliman offers a wide range of activities and is known for the enthusiasm of its students. Through participation in college activities, conversations in the dining hall, and a wide variety of social occasions, students create the intellectual and cultural atmosphere that is the foundation of college life.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

Benjamin Silliman (1779-1864), Yale Class of 1796, was one of America's pioneers in science. Although Silliman graduated knowing nothing of the natural sciences, President Timothy Dwight asked him (to avoid hiring a foreigner with whom Puritan manners and morals might not sit well) in 1802 to become Yale's first science professor, teaching chemistry and natural history. Silliman proved to be eminently capable and delivered Yale's first science lecture in 1804. Soon afterward, President Dwight sent him to Europe to purchase scientific equipment, books for the College Library, and a cabinet of two thousand minerals to begin the study of mineralogy at Yale. After his return, he played a leading role in the foundation of the Yale Medical School, the Peabody Museum, and the American Journal of Science, a scientific periodical still published today. In 1852, Silliman was instrumental in the founding of the Yale School of Engineering, a pioneering event in professional scientific education in the United States. To honor such a towering figure in the history of science at Yale and in America, our college was named after Benjamin Silliman.

Silliman College opened in September of 1940. It was the last of the original ten Yale residential colleges to be completed. The Vanderbilt-Sheffield dormitories and Byers Hall (now the Common Room, Dining Hall, Sillibrary, and Master's and Dean's Offices), dating from the early 1900s, were retained in the plans. All of the brick structures, including the Master's House, were built between 1938 and 1940.

Over the years, our college has evolved from a dormitory intended for science students to a diverse yet cohesive residential community. Sparing its freshmen from living on Old Campus, Silliman is the largest in area of all the colleges. Our buildings boasts a tremendous array of facilities, including a movie theater, digital art's lab, art gallery, library, kitchen, aerobics and dance studio, art studio, basketball court, weight and fitness room, sound studio, game room, and buttery.

The colors in Silliman's seal refer to the four elements of the ancient philosophers: red represents fire; white, air and water; and green, the earth. It also carries the golden acorns from the family crest of Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Yale Class of 1876, whose bequest funded Silliman's construction. Because of its legendary associations with fire, the salamander was selected as the college symbol.

*Our ancient patron,
Ben Silliman*

Excessive Noise: Amplifiers, stereos, musical instruments, radios, and the like should be used with consideration for other college residents. They must not be played so loudly as to invade the rights of others. Quiet hours are in effect after 11PM Sunday-Thursday and after 1AM Friday and Saturday. Violators risk disciplinary action, and persistent offenders may be required to vacate University housing.

Pets: Students are not allowed to keep pets in the college. The presence of any animal in student rooms constitutes a problem for public health and sanitation.

Smoking: The colleges at Yale are smoke-free zones. Smoking is not permitted in any building in Silliman, including student rooms, entryways, etc. Please smoke outside and only where cigarette receptacles are located.

Smoke Detectors: As the first line of defense against fire, these should be operating at all times. Never remove batteries from detectors. Tampering with smoke alarms or removing the batteries is punishable by a $100 fine.

Students dress up for the annual Silliman Holiday Dinner!

Security: For your own safety, the Master and the University Police strongly urge you to keep your room locked at all times. Entryway and basement doors and the four gates to the College should also be kept locked at all times; please do not prop doors open. Broken locks should be reported without delay to the Master's Office.

Insurance: Yale University does not carry insurance on personal property and is not responsible for any items belonging to students. Insurance on property must be arranged privately.

All questions about maintenance, bathrooms, and furnishings should be addressed to her email or her office in the Grove Street Archway (203-432-0706).

Room Inspections: During the year, the Fire Marshal periodically makes fire and safety inspections of rooms. For reasons of health and safety, students should maintain reasonable standards of cleanliness and order in their rooms. Health and fire hazards will not be tolerated. Remember that occupants are held responsible for any and all property damage within the suite, including damage caused by guests. Electrical space heaters, cooking equipment, microwave ovens, and other heavy-duty electrical appliances violate the fire code and are subject to confiscation by the Fire Marshal. Explosives, firecrackers, and firearms are prohibited.

Fire Extinguishers: By law, fire extinguishers must be ready at all times for use in the case of a fire. Removing them from their proper stations or emptying them are serious offenses and violate Undergraduate Regulations. All persons responsible (either directly or by responsibility for his or her guests) are subject to disciplinary action by the Yale College Executive Committee and are liable for a fine of $100 for each extinguisher, plus the cost of refilling.

Recycling: Yale is required by Connecticut law to recycle nine types of items, including office paper, newspaper, glass bottles and jars, cans and corrugated cardboard. Yale uses single-stream recycling.

BICYCLE RACKS

Bicycle racks are located near the Wall Street, College Street, and Grove Street gates. Please do not store bicycles in the stairwells as this violates state fire laws. Items blocking stairwells and fire doors may be confiscated by order of the Fire Marshal. Also, please do not chain bikes to trees or benches in the courtyard.

SILLIMAN ADMINISTRATIVE AND ACTIVITIES COUNCIL (SAAC)

All enrolled Sillimanders are invited to become members of SAAC, and are entitled to attend meetings and vote. The Council acts as a forum for the discussion of matters important to the Silliman community, allocates the Student Activities Fund and organizes most of the social events that take place in Silliman throughout the year. SAAC has sponsored events such as dances, a haunted house, a ski trip, a karaoke night, fellow's dinners, a trip to Six Flags, a volleyball tournament, a trip to a baseball game, a trip to Broadway and the Apollo theatre, and a year-end carnival known as Sillifest. Come to the meetings to help plan these activities, or to suggest ones of your own. Council officers are elected each semester, and freshmen are especially encouraged to run for office. Look for signs and emails and come get involved in the ins and outs of your college. This is a great way to get to know other people, to discuss improvements to the college, and to eat free pizza, soda, and candy. Meetings are Mondays at 10:00 PM in the SAAC room.

INTRAMURALS

Silliman was a THREE TIME Tyng Cup Champion (2006, 2007, 2008)! Help Silliman take back the Tyng this year! Get in touch with the secretaries, and try to play at least one sport each season. Play soccer against Pierson or inner tube water polo against JE! All students – regardless of ability – are invited to defend the Silliman banner against other colleges in intramural competitions. The college that scores the most points in Intramural competition is awarded the prestigious Tyng Cup. You don't have to know how to play: we will explain the rules of the game to you, so don't be shy! It's a wonderful opportunity to have fun and meet people and take a break from studying. Check the IM white board in Byers Hall for announcements and schedules, and to see which sports are in season. IM secretaries are listed on the Silliman website, so feel free to contact the secretaries for more information.

SILLIRINGERS

Silliringers perform their annual concert at Holiday Dinner.

James Osborn, a former Fellow of Silliman, gave the College a magnificent set of Schulmerich handbells which offer a chromatic range of three full octaves. Anyone interested in performing in a group with these handbells should contact the Master's Office. Performances by the Silliringers — who, in the words of former Master Brownell, “practice for minutes and minutes” before performing — is a holiday tradition.

SILLISIBS

Each year, some upperclassmen volunteer to be “Sillisibs” for incoming freshmen, and you too will be a part of a “Silli-family.” Towards the beginning of the year, there will be a social event in Silliman for Sillisibs to get to know one another. Towards the end of the year, there will be an opportunity for you to extend your Silli-family and volunteer to be a Sillisib to someone in the Class of 2019.

TIES

Tutoring in Elementary Schools (TIES) is the largest community service organization at Yale. Founded in 1990 by a junior in Silliman, it has since spread to every other residential college. Silliman's TIES volunteers may choose either to tutor a child at Celentano, the elementary school with which Silliman is affiliated, or to teach an after-school class there through the Extended Day program.

Fellows

Silliman College has over 100 Fellows — faculty members — representing most of the departments and schools of the University. There are also over 100 Associate Fellows — distinguished members of the New Haven community. The Fellowship offers the faculty an opportunity for greater contact with students. A Silliman Fellow will serve as your freshman academic advisor. They also give seminars, join the students for social occasions, and participate in many events in the College. Experience has shown that members of the faculty and student-body are reluctant to impose upon one another, but the barriers of reserve are easily removed if you take the initiative. Invite a Fellow to join you for a meal — he or she will probably be delighted to accept.

The College also provides a relaxed atmosphere where members of different departments can become acquainted. A physicist and a classicist may find that they have much in common and become fast friends. These interludes are significant in building unity and spirit within the University and in making it an exciting place to work — all of which results in a stronger faculty, to the ultimate benefit of the students.
